The call for a Fourth ward Republican caucus for next Tuesday evening was brought to this office written on Republican city central committee letter heads by Otis Hingate, secretary. A. J. Huntton and other members of the committee say it was not authorized by them. We supposed Secretary Hingate was good authority.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A WOMAN MEMBER OF THE ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY OF THE PACIFIC.

Packing Away For Summer—Chicago's Woman Druggist—A Question of Justice. Jackets of the Season—Kentucky's Entering Wedge—Mrs. Alice F. Palmer.

The only woman astronomer of any importance on the Pacific coast is Miss Rose O'Halloran. She is also the only woman member of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, having been nominated to the honor by Professor Holden. From her earliest childhood she was attracted by astronomy, and it was the one study that was always a pleasure and never a task.

In appearance Miss O'Halloran is interesting. She is very small, with a well-shaped head firmly set on small shoulders and held up with that indescribable air that denotes character. Her eyes are gray, with circles about them that tell of watching at night, but they are very pleasant, cheerful eyes for all that. She dresses with the utmost simplicity.

Miss O'Halloran was born in Carrick-on-Suir, Tipperary, Ireland. Her father was well to do, and his daughter received a good education. After his death the family wealth rapidly disappeared, and the carefully raised daughter had to think about earning a living. Miss O'Halloran came to America and began teaching, and she naturally chose astronomy, her favorite subject, as her specialty. She managed to keep up her independent observations in spite of the difficulty of teaching all day and star gazing all night. Her chief difficulty was the lack of a fitting instrument for her work. She was at last enabled to obtain her heart's desire. Professor George Davidson became interested in her struggles, and it was by the help of his wife and himself she finally owned a 4 1/2 inch Bressler refractor.

The room where Miss O'Halloran and the telescope do their work is an observatory and classroom combined, for she still finds it necessary to teach. In place of pictures the observatory is hung with maps and charts of the heavens. Just now she is looking for variable stars. On every clear night she scans the heavens in the region of Scorpion. Each night she draws a map on which the positions and magnitude of the stars are indicated. In 1894 she will have completed her third set of maps. From these she will determine what stars she supposes to be variable in Scorpion. On Jan. 19, 1893, she observed and sketched a rapidly developing group of spots near the sun's western limb. The return of the group on the eastern limb was first seen on Feb. 4. This group was identified with the great February sun spot group, so that Miss O'Halloran was one of the very earliest observers, and possibly the earliest, which shows what can be accomplished by industry even with nothing better than a 4 inch telescope. During years of struggle and study she has added to her income by writing astronomical articles for magazines.

At present Miss O'Halloran is collecting material for a book. She expects it to take years, but some day all the maps and diagrams she is drawing will be collected and published.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Packing Away For Summer. There are few things among the housekeeper's duties that are as imperfectly understood and about which so much unnecessary fuss is made as the putting away of winter clothing and furs in order to keep them safely and prevent the ravages of moths. Plans innumerable are devised, and chemicals and drugs without limit are recommended, and all the while the industrious destroyer goes on, and when autumn comes little is left but perforations to tell the story of failure. Very little is required in order to insure the success of the packing away, and this little is, in most cases, comprehended by precautions taken in time and the use of close bags of thick paper. Put away early in the season, after a thorough beating and dusting, furs will, 99 times out of 100, come out in perfect order, but they must be done before the moth season begins, else the precaution avails but little.

In case it is necessary to have them about late in the season the danger may be removed by dusting them with very dry salt and allowing them to remain a few hours. Unless the salt becomes damp, it does neither furs nor garments any manner of harm and is one of the most effective preservatives. Moths do not like salt and will not work in garments that are sprinkled with it. When perfectly dry, it is unlikely to produce any injurious effect whatever. Carpets, rugs, draperies, indeed everything of the wool or fur nature, may be safely packed in this way. Last year fine rugs and carpets were put into bags made of ticking. Before rolling them up salt was sprinkled through them and shaken into every portion. The bags were then hung up in a dry attic, and when they were unpacked in November they were in the most perfect order. It is unnecessary and wasteful—this destruction from moths—about which so much is said, when 10 cents' worth of salt is sufficient to insure the safety of all of the wool materials in an ordinary sized house.—New York Ledger.

Chicago's Woman Druggist. Mrs. Ida Hall Roby is the pioneer woman druggist of Chicago, and she does a flourishing business. She is a native of Rochester, but has lived in Chicago for over 20 years. When in 1880 she was thrown upon her own support, she applied for a position as drug clerk at a pharmacy near her home. During her four years' apprenticeship there she made the acquaintance and won the esteem of many physicians in the neighborhood, so that when she started business for herself at the end of that time she had already quite a clientele. At the same time she entered the

A PARIS BICYCLE COSTUME.—Harper's Bazar.

Northwestern university, and by hard work succeeded in building up a business and obtaining a degree at the same time. Her business is now in a flourishing condition. She has for the past three years furnished the drug supplies of the Home for the Friendless, and for the past year these for the Hahnemann Medical college and hospital. The store itself is shiningly neat and betrays its feminine ownership in numerous ways.

Mrs. Roby was the founder of the Women's Pharmaceutical association of Illinois, which exhibited the model drug store at the World's fair last year. She tries in her business to have women for her assistants. Her clerk at present is Miss Viola Griswold, who carried off the medal for scholarship from 65 men in the class of 1892 at Northwestern university. She sleeps in the store to answer night calls and to open it at 6 o'clock in the morning, but these hardships do not dampen her enthusiasm, and she is as zealous as her employer.—Chicago Letter.

A Question of Simple Justice. Prior to 25 years ago there were no women's clubs in the country. Today there are no fewer than 500 feminine organizations, representing a membership of more than 50,000 women, and these have been called into existence and carried on with continuous propriety by my own sex exclusively. These clubs concern themselves with the discussion of every important question of the day, and a great number of them give especial attention to political study.

As women become familiarized with politics from governmental and constitutional points of view they develop an interest in the ballot and begin to recognize that in simple justice the prerogative of a vote should be accorded them. Therefore, in my estimation, the opinion that women should have a vote is spreading widely among the progressive and intelligent women of the day. Among these I recognize many women who only a few years ago were arrayed in the strongest opposition to the woman's suffrage movement.

In the ranks of illiterate or ignorant women I do not think the subject has gained any headway, as they do not know anything about it. They are afraid of it, sensitive to the ridicule they may excite in the inferior intelligence of their daily associates. The number of the violent and aggressive agitators of "women's rights" does not seem to augment, but the able, earnest, evenly balanced pioneers of the cause have reason to congratulate themselves upon the steady, upward, intelligent growth of the ideas they were the first to disseminate.—Jennie June.

FAVORS HARRISON.

Mr. New Wasn't Interviewed But Believes Harrison is the People's Choice. INDIANAPOLIS, May 5.—Mr. Harris New of the Journal, disclaims ever having been interviewed on the subject of Gen. Harrison's candidacy. He did say in a purely personal conversation that he believed that Mr. Harrison would be the people's choice in 1896, but did not talk with any authority, nor with an assertion of authority.

The author of the reported interview did not hear the conversation, but was told that a conversation on the subject had been held, and without even knowing the substance of the conversation wrote the alleged interview.

KELLY ON A RAFT.

Proposition to Float It Down the Mississippi.

DES MOINES, May 5.—The proposition to float Kelly's army down the Mississippi on fifteen rafts each bearing ten men is still under consideration. It is feared that Kelly will not be able to float over 800 of his men out of the city when he goes and that the 800 or more will be turned loose on the city and country. During the past week as many as 100 men brought here by the army either as members or hangers-on, have been jailed on various charges.

The citizens' committee disbanded today and closed its office. This committee had been in charge of Gen. Weaver and his fellow spirits. They were unanimous in welcoming the army but have notified them they can do nothing more.

SEIZED AMERICAN HORSES.

Germans Object to Having "Ringers" Paired Off on Them.

BERLIN, May 5.—A sensation has been caused in German sporting circles by the seizure of three trotting mares belonging to an American named Kneebbs.

It appears that Kneebbs has been winning a number of trotting races in this country and that he has won prizes in money to the amount of 2,250 marks with Bethel, one of his mares, by racing her under the name of Nellie Kneebbs, and declaring that she had never before won a match. The discovery of this fraud led to the seizure of the three mares owned by Kneebbs just as they were upon the point of being shipped to Vienna.

ONLY MILE TRACKS.

Western Turf Congress Discourages All but Mile Tracks.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—Horsemen who have been campaigning here at the East Side, Madison and South Side tracks are much disturbed over an imperative rule adopted by the Western Turf congress at its recent meeting and which has just been made public.

The rule, in effect, discourages tracks less than a mile in length and bars from the big tracks all horses run after June 23 on tracks less than a mile in length.

As the three tracks noted are all half tracks and have stabled a total of nearly 2,000 horses, it is easy to understand the effect of the rule here.

FIGHT FOR A CHILD.

Mrs. Louise Northrup and George Biddle Have Trouble About a Little Girl.

George Biddle is a boy about 18 years old. Mrs. Louise Northrup who lives near the river has charge of his half-sister, a 4-year-old child.

Last evening Biddle went to the woman's house and demanded the child. When Mrs. Northrup refused to give her up he grew demonstrative and attempted to take the girl by force. A scuffle ensued, during which the child was bruised considerably. Mrs. Northrup had Biddle arrested and he was fined $10 in police court this morning.

HARRISON WOULD ACCEPT

Judge Scott Says He Wouldn't Engage in a Wild Scramble Though.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., May 5.—Judge Scott, brother-in-law of Gen. Harrison, with whom he recently spent several weeks in California, says: "The ex president expressed himself as not being a candidate on the Republican ticket in 1896. Mr. Harrison said the Republican nomination was equivalent to an election, but on account of family afflictions, he was not anxious to enter the contest for another term, although I believe if the nomination were tendered him he would accept." "Gen. Harrison does not consider it dignifying or proper for an ex-president to engage in a wild scramble for office."

An honest

Confession.

If we were asked the reason why "VIAGRI" performs such wonderful cures, we would be honest, and say, "We don't know." Ask a scientist why an apple invariably falls downward, and he would say it was due to the law of Gravitation.

That is about all he could tell you. It is no more natural for bodies to gravitate toward the center of the earth than it is for "VIAGRI" to cure the diseases peculiar to women. It is not a drug, but a food, which nourishes and strengthens the affected parts, thereby enabling nature to throw off the disease. Our Health Book sent free.
